Proposed Venue: Hotel Novotel, Newtown, Kolkata.

Computational Pathology CME: 16th January, 2020

Proposed Venue: Auditorium Phase II, Tata Medical Center, Kolkata, Rajarhat, Newtown

Continuing the tradition of organizing site specific specialty conferences, the department of pathology, Tata Medical Center, Kolkata welcomes pathologists with interest in head and neck pathology and oral pathologists to attend this 2 and a half-day Head and Neck Pathology CME. Invited, is a galaxy of international and national experts to deliberate on issues ranging from diagnostic pitfalls to newer entities to updates in thyroid, salivary gland, sinonasal tract and oral cavity lesions together with educative slide seminars. This also presents a unique opportunity to network with peers and leaders in the field and for students to identify training opportunities.

As a primer to this meeting, we have also arranged a CME on Computational Pathology. In the current digital era, computational pathology is transforming the way pathologists will work in the future. The targeted audience of the computational pathology CME includes practicing pathologists, fellows, post-graduates and basic scientists. The esteemed national and international speakers are pathologists and scientists who are leaders in the field of computational pathology and artificial intelligence.

Confirmed International Faculty includes: Dr. Asa Sylvia (Toronto General Hospital), Dr. Bruce Wenig (Moffitt Cancer Center, USA), Dr. Lester Thompson (Woodland Hills Medical Center, USA), Dr. Margaret Brandwein-Weber (Mount Sinai Hospital, USA), Dr Scott Doyle, (Jacobs School of Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, USA).

Delegates have a choice to attend one or both CME. Attractive discounts will be offered for those attending both!
